Offering a Compassionate Presence

Chaplains and pastoral counselors are called to offer a compassionate presence in the midst of life's most difficult moments. They serve people who may never walk into one of our congregations, offering hope and healing to those who desperately need to hear from a living witness that God has not walked away from them.

Since 1998, CBF has endorsed nearly 1,200 chaplains and pastoral counselors to a variety of specialized ministry settings, with over 940 actively serving. CBF-endorsed chaplains serve in all branches of the United States Armed Forces, medical centers, correctional institutions, hospice organizations, police, fire and rescue departments, government agencies, colleges and universities, businesses and industries, retirement communities, the Department of Veterans Affairs as well as in many other community settings. CBF-endorsed pastoral counselors serve in counseling centers, interdisciplinary settings and on church staffs.
